BULLETIN BITE!!!

“Master, we have worked hard all night and have caught nothing, but at your command I will lower the nets!”

Fishing is a difficult and dangerous way to make a living. The profits sometimes do not justify the perspiration and the peril. And it is highly unlikely that a man who has spent his life fishing on a small, pear shaped sea in Galilee would take the advice of a carpenter about where and when to lower his nets. That is why Simon's response to Jesus is such a strong statement of faith. When Simon Peter realized that Jesus was calling him to be his disciple he fell to his knees and said, "Depart from me, Lord, for I am a sinful man." When Isaiah heard the Lord he proclaimed his unworthiness. The Lord asked, "Whom shall I send?" Isaiah responded, "Here I am Lord, send me!" When Cardinal Karol Wojtyla stepped onto the balcony as Pope John Paul II, he said, "Do not be afraid!" Isaiah, Simon Peter and John Paul II are teaching us that being a disciple, a follower of Jesus Christ, is not about being worthy. It is about being willing. If we wait until we are worthy, we will never begin. If we are willing, we have already begun to follow Jesus.

TODAYS REFLECTION

During this Jubilee Year of Mercy, Pope Francis calls us to share with everyone the tender compassion of God that we ourselves have experienced. In today's Gospel, Luke uses a special Greek word conveying just such tenderness. In the other Gospels, Jesus calls the disciples to be "fishers," haleis, the same word that means catching fish with hooks or nets, to be killed and eaten. But Luke uses zogron, from zoe or "life," meaning "catch or gather people alive," "as animal lovers capture without harming, rescue from "the wild" for a better life, and protect in an aquarium or zoo, tenderly cared for by professionals committed to the creatures' well-being. So in Luke's vision—and Pope Francis' as well—we who have been "caught alive" by God's mercy ourselves are to become "missionaries of mercy" during this Jubilee Year of Mercy, rescuing fellow sinners from danger and gathering them into Jesus' community to enjoy fullness of life.
